En plena crisis de los cuarenta, un hombre toma algunas decisiones equivocadas que traerán consecuencias nefastas. Treinta años más tarde, demolido por la culpa, regresa a Cartagena de Indias para enmendar algunos de esos errores, comprender los motivos profundos de sus acciones y ser perdonado por aquellos a quienes tanto daño causó. La ciudad caribeña es el marco esplendoroso en el que se desarrolla esta historia que tiene por protagonistas a Franco Rossi #un viejo periodista cargado de amargura# y a su padre casi nonagenario que presenta serios problemas de memoria, pero también una lucidez sorprendente y un implacable sentido del humor. En su periplo por las calles cartageneras, se cruzarán con una mujer que no ha olvidado, con un hombre que cree ser un personaje de García Márquez y con el propio Nobel colombiano ya en la última etapa de su vida. Entre todos construirán una trama que difumina los límites de la realidad y la fantasía, propone un diálogo con los textos del genial autor y nos plantea preguntas acerca del valor de la originalidad en el arte, el poder destructivo de la culpa y la posibilidad de redención.
